

Creation of a center of mennonite archives in France

The « French Association for Anabaptist-Mennonite History (or Association Française d'Histoire Anabaptiste Mennonite, AFHAM) works actively towards promoting knowledge of the historical past of the French Mennonite Church, and preserving its cultural heritage.

Future generations need to know about their past and the personal journey of those that preceded them, in order to understand their Mennonite identity.

To reach such an objective, and in order that the course of our history may continue, a national center for conservation and preservation is to be created. It will regroup all the archives coming from the different French Mennonite churches and associations. The facility will be integrated into the major restructuring project of La Prairie Mennonite Church in Montbéliard, in the eastern part of France, a location with a strong meaning, both past and present.

Please help us reach this goal, by contributing financially to the above mentioned project (estimated cost: 180,000€ / $200,000) which will allow us to centralize and preserve documents that could otherwise be damaged or lost.
